MEDICAL.
TO THE UNFORTUNATE.
NEW REMEDIES! NEW REMEDIES!
Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,
623 KEARNEY STREET COR COMMERCIAL San Francisco Established in 1854 for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearney street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him
The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.
How many thousands of persons both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible, life-destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to DR. GIBBON, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate case without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those pretending

Seminal Weakness.
Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse, this solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: low countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

Married Men,
or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them, or delay to obtain immediate relief.
DR. GIBBON is responsible and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure or make no charge.

Caution to the Unfortunate.
Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus sworn to certificates dupe the unwary. Some of the self styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are salesmen and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets; for, as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus files, certificates, pretended patients' letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.

Cured at Home.
Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Dr Gibbon stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions. By inclosing Ten Dollars coin, in registered letter through the Post Office or through Wells Fargo & Co., a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union. All communications strictly confidential.

Affidavit of Mrs. Tilton.

NEW YORK, June 24—Mrs Tilton will to morrow publish an affidavit, written in her own vindication, in which she says no person was employed in laying carpets at the time specified by Lees Loader and Price, and to the best of her knowledge they were never in her house and their narration relating to herself and Beecher is wholly and utterly false. She says There never was any improper relations between Beecher and myself and all charges of adultery or improper conduct or any attempt on his or my part to have or solicit any improper relation or acts are utterly absolutely false. No act or word ever passed between Beecher and myself that could not with equal propriety have passed between father and daughter. In conclusion I declare in presence of Almighty God that I am absolutely innocent of all offenses charged against me with relation to Beecher, except through the influence of my husband which was impossible to resist. I have made charges against Beecher which were false and entirely unfounded and which I well knew to be unfounded. I left my husband willingly and without solicitation especially on the part of Beecher but as far as I have any knowledge to the contrary to Beecher's desire. It was impossible for me so long as I lived with my husband to resist his demands or to speak truth when he requested me to deny it.

TILTON-BEECHER TRIAL

NEW YORK June ...

After recess Beach resumed his argument. He said he was obliged to speak with severity of a professional brother and there was no more repulsive or disagreeable duty which a lawyer could have to perform than that but as Tracy had seen fit to place himself upon the witness stand and had contradicted three of the witnesses for the prosecution he had no choice and was compelled to consider his testimony together with the attitude he occupied in the case. That witness had contradicted Tilton, Moulton and Franklin Woodruff in the material issue in this cause. He had played in this scandal a versatile part and had filled all its phases with equal zeal and abandon. When the Beecher case was in sore need of a witness to contradict what was testified by three witnesses for the plaintiff Tracy leaped into the breach and sacrificed himself for his client. He stood in the same attitude as Beecher opposing his unsupported word to that of three gentlemen who in reputations were equal to his own. Evarts and Porter had said the action of Tracy had received their sanction. He had the greatest respect and regard for these gentlemen professionally and socially but on this point was compelled to differ from their opinion and regard the course of Tracy as involving professional treachery and personal dishonor. I have an infinite trust in that justice which rules the world and notes the fall of the sparrow. In the coat of arms and seal of your city is the motto Right makes might and on any day of public celebration it shines upon the flag which is hung out from the dome of your city hall. It is one which encourages and strengthens weakness in its contest with arrogance and power. It is a sentiment which has sustained my client in all the difficulties and discouragement of this trial and which will sustain and eventually I trust redeem him because it bears the promise of Him whose word shall never fail. Wearied and worn with this trial I yet part from you with a respectful regret. Our long association bringing us into intimacy impresses me with kindly sentiment and interest for each one of you. We have stood before the community animated by a common object seeking after the right in honest sincerity without distemper free from the turbulent influence anxieties and sympathies of an excited people actuated by a desire to uphold the strong pillars of the temple of truth and honesty and to preserve the altar of God from efforts aimed at its ruin. The struggle this day is between law and a great character and a great church. If the latter triumph and the law be trodden down it warrants him who calleth good evil and evil good

May it please your honor I need not say that I should express the common sentiment of my associates and myself as we recall the indulgent dignity and fearless learning with which you have guided us through the tangled mazes of this trial. You can receive no nobler tribute than that offered by our adversaries. Fighting every step of the case sprinkling the record all over with exceptions, they have acknowledged the entire accuracy of your numerous decisions. You have the gratification to know that you have worked no injustice to this defendant. Indulge the hope that the feeling of regard with which you have honored me will as well as my own warm feelings towards yourself grow and increase after the close of these toilsome days. I cannot close without expressing my grateful thanks to my noble friends and associates. If any merit has attended my efforts it is due to their sagacity and wise prompting. Posting me in front of the battle they have still stood as its leaders. It has been a great loss that by unavoidable circumstances my friend Gen Pryor has been so much away from the case. If he has not stricken so many blows in the field he has been the wisdom of the cabinet. Deeply are we all indebted to his ready and large learning and judicious counsel. You will credit me when I declare that the duty I have performed has been unwelcome and painful. I have not spoken aught in malice and I leave this cause without the slightest asperity of feeling toward any one. Filled with unaffected admiration of the transcendent qualities of my distinguished antagonist no one admires more largely than myself the magnificent genius of this defendant. Rich as he is in mental endowments prodigal as his labors have been they cannot shelter his offense against the law. Genius as lofty could not save Bacon. He sinned and fell and upon his memory history has written that epitaph

"The wisest greatest meanest of mankind."

Towards great men in disgrace like these who fall as Whittier New England's gifted poet writes in his poem called Ichabod

> So fallen! So lost! The light withdrawn
> Which once he bore!
> The glory of his gray hairs gone
> Forevermore.

Beach then submitted his cause to the jury by reading an extract from an address of Daniel Webster. The extract was an admonition to jurors to do their whole duty according to their oaths regardless of consequences

Abbott then said they had a number of requests to charge and asked if his learned friend desired to make any

We have none to make said Beach

We will hear your requests now, said Judge Neilson

Abbott then read requests to charge which were very voluminous and 50 in number and of which a copy was handed to the court. During the reading of the requests Abbott quoted from several authorities to whom Morris objected on the ground that counsel was using arguments but Judge Neilson said the reading of them could be no harm any way. Said they all relate to divorce cases and I am perfectly familiar with them.

When Abbott had finished reading Beach requested the court to appoint some time and place for hearing of an application to reopen the case on the ground of newly discovered evidence

To this Judge Neilson stated that he would like to hear what the defense had to say about it but Evarts replied that they had nothing to say in the matter

Judge Neilson said there was no necessity for fixing the time and place to hear the motion as no objection was raised by the other side and if affidavits which counsel said he had to sustain the application were given him he would examine them and give his decision to morrow before he began his charge to the jury

Affidavits were then passed up to his honor and court adjourned

Judge Neilson Refuses to Open the Case.

NEW YORK June 24—The Brooklyn court-room was crowded. Beecher and wife were among the Plymouth throng. Judge Neilson said under the circumstances he was compelled on examination of the affidavits to deny the application for reopening the case and in accordance with Beach's request the papers were filed with the clerk of the court.

The Judge's Charge to the Jury.

Judge Neilson then stated that the jury might retain their seats if they so desired while he delivered the charge. After congratulating the jury on the approaching close of their labors and saying he had habitually refrained from stating his own opinions on questions of fact he said At this hour it is your duty to accept fully and without shade of mental reservation the rules of law stated but on the other hand I wish to pay a like degree of respect to your great office. You are the sole judges of the weight of evidence and the credibility of witnesses. A sense of this restrains me from commenting on the proofs at large and from indicating to you what my own opinions may be on the questions of fact involved. Your recognition of that as your relation to the court and to the cause is due to the oath you have taken to render the true verdict according to the evidence. My recognition of it is due not only to you but to the parties as the moral force of a verdict depends largely on the fact that it is the unbiased judgment of twelve men selected from the body of our citizens and in the most solemn form known to our laws consecrated to the service

He then stated that counsel had extracted so much testimony from the one hundred and eleven witnesses that if he were to quote it to them they would not reach their deliberation until days hence weary and exhausted. The pleadings had been stated in their hearing and they understood that the charge of adultery lay at the bottom of it. The Judge said that some testimony relates to the principal question in issue some of it to the credit due to certain witnesses some of it to the mere question of damage. The pleadings have been stated in your hearing and you perceive the charge of adultery denied by the answer lies at the foundation of the case. Upon the issue thus joined the burden of proof rests on the plaintiff. You are also to understand that evidence should be such as to carry conviction to the minds of just and prudent men should point to actual guilt more directly than to any other reasonable hypothesis. The wrong charged in this complaint might be proved by direct or circumstantial evidence but such charge is not usually proved or indeed probably by direct and positive evidence. The reason is obvious. In most instances where under social restraints an apparently proper intimacy degenerates into licentious act the evil intent and life put on the garb of innocence. Such cases as to all cases of doubt and difficulty the law of evidence searching and flexible applies peculiar tests presumptions and inferences drawn from facts and from conduct so that according to the dictates of experience may be finally the question of guilt or innocence may be determined by the jury in the light reflected by surrounding circumstances. Judge Neilson said with a few simple illustrations stated with reference to cases of this character may enable you to understand sufficiently for the present purpose the difference between direct circumstantial and presumptive evidence. If a witness should testify he had seen the actual commission of the act charged it would be what is called direct and positive evidence. If the witness should testify that the wife and the paramour (defendant) occupied the same room all night in such manner as tended to the suspicion that they had slept together or he had admitted guilt that would be circumstantial evidence of it. If to a letter received by the defendant explicitly charging him with adultery he answered by simply saying I am very sorry and hope to be forgiven, or if on being thus charged in a conversation by one having an interest in the matter he had made no answer whatever that by a process of natural reasoning The judge said would be presumptive evidence. The judge said circumstantial evidence must be acted upon very cautiously. The evidence bearing on the principal question that of adultery, may be taken up in its order thus, 1st, as to the writing referred to 2d, as to oral admission, 3d, as to the tacit or implied admission and further as to the general conduct of the defendant. I propose briefly to call your attention to some of more important matters falling under each of these heads. Your conclusions should not be drawn from one of these classes of evidence but from all the testimony on this branch of these combined. In taking up the writings referred to you will observe the plaintiff's letter of 4th December 1870 demanding that defendant should leave his pulpit in the city was the first open act of hostility. That demand was withdrawn at an interview held by the parties at Moulton's house on the evening of Dec 30 1870. The plaintiff claims that was in deference to the wishes of his wife at that time. The paper written by Mrs Tilton in respect to her relations to defendant a copy of which plaintiff had was to him after having been read or stated to defendant and the original she tore up afterwards by Mrs Tilton with her husband's assent. Proof of the contents of that paper was ruled out because the writing was a confidential communication by the wife to her husband and because he was a party to its destruction but that ruling was not exceptionable as no charge written by Mrs Tilton could have been evidence against defendant. That same evening, Beecher with the assent of her husband called on Mrs. Tilton. He then obtained the paper commonly called the retraction afterwards surrendered to Moulton. The next paper in order is that of Jan 1st, 1871. It is in Moulton's hand writing with the exception of the lines at the bottom and the signature which were written by Beecher. A question of fact in dispute as to this paper deserves your attention. Mr Moulton says that it was dictated sentence by sentence and that it was read over. Mr Beecher denies that dictation and that reading. As to the degree of credit to which these witnesses thus in conflict may be relatively entitled, you will remember they speak of what occurred at a time of great excitement. They may not have been equally affected but while the one was pouring out his thoughts in the agony of self depreciation the other may well have been moved in sympathy. The law has tender consideration for any infirmity of memory thus exhibited. The witness is not expected to speak of events with certainty. As to the subject spoken of by those witnesses you should be prudent in reference to mere probabilities. You are not to indulge in speculations or lightly consider a matter which has been affirmed, because it may not seem reasonable. The Judge said reference by him to other papers would be nearly unnecessary but from them it appears defendant was conscious of having committed some wrong, or offense affecting the plaintiff and his family. With that observation as to the import of papers I submit them to your consideration that you may take them in connection with the proofs at large determine what the charge of offense was.

Passing to the second branch of evidence as to the principal charge in the order stated I call attention to the alleged oral admission. The confession of a party made deliberately against his own interest as to facts known and understood by him if clearly proved is regarded as of a high class of evidence and deservedly so because it is contrary to experience for men to admit what hurts them if not true. Experience proves rather that men evade or deny the truth when the truth hurts them. Testimony to prove oral admissions should be carefully scrutinized. The jury should be satisfied the witnesses clearly understood correctly remembered and fairly repeated what was said. But caution against relying on such testimony too implicitly should find its counterpoise in the caution against the too ready rejection of it.

The third class of evidence in the arrangement stated is as to tacit or implied admission. In theory it appeals to a principle peculiar to presumptive evidence. It is assumed that on suitable occasions most men have such regard for their own interest that on being unjustly charged or maligned they will speak out in denial or justification. Hence it is that silence may often be regarded as confession. The most obvious difficulty in applying this doctrine arises from the consideration that all men may not act alike in the same circumstances and that the jury may possibly ascribe to a sense of guilt what really was due to mere surprise or to some unknown restraint. The testimony of plaintiff and of Mr and Mrs Moulton is as to two forms of admission—the one oral the other tacit or implied. In considering those portions of that testimony which relate to defendant's actual admission of guilt you will recall the doctrine stated under a former head to the effect that reasonable doubt as to want of apprehension or of memory or of fairness in that witness proving such admissions, imposes upon the jury the exercise of great caution upon the testimony. You will inquire whether the witnesses are correct in their statements or whether the defendant was misunderstood by them. In considering the other portions of their testimony as to implied admissions also contradicted by the defendant you inquire whether in the conversations had by him with witnesses his adultery with the plaintiff's wife was spoken of in clear and express terms. If you find that he was thus charged so that acting on the impulse common to most men he would have denied it if without foundation you will consider the inference to be drawn from and any apparent excuse for his silence.

The remaining class of evidence as to the principal question in issue relates to the conduct of defendant. In the first place you will consider his conduct in his intercourse with Mrs Tilton as proved by Joseph Richards and Kate Carey. The circumstances stated by them are claimed to disclose an undue familiarity. Your attention has been called to a series of events to the reasons which may have led to certain modes of action of acquiescence of restraints to occasional disturbances apprehensions and presentiments lapsing into seasons of patient endurance. Counsel have given their views as to the significance of each fact and circumstance but in and through it all the vital and absorbing question remains not whether defendant acted wisely or well but as he would not have acted if innocent of this particular charge. I recur to the letter of the 26th of December delivered by Bowen in which plaintiff said to defendant I demand that for reasons that you explicitly understand you immediately cease from the ministry of Plymouth church and that you quit the city of Brooklyn as a residence. The question is as to the manner in which this demand was received. Plaintiff's theory seems to have been that as the offense charged in this complaint had been perpetrated reasons thus generally referred to would be apprehended on reading the letter. Defendant said this man is crazy. It is for you to consider whether that remark was or not in the nature of a suggestion that there were no sensible reasons for making that demand and whether in conversation or in tone and manner defendant betrayed any consciousness of guilt

The Judge referred to the policy of silence, and said Beecher's course throughout was to be carefully scrutinized. You will inquire whether attention was paid to Mrs Woodhull to conciliate at the instance or with the approbation of the defendant whether before Bessie Turner was sent off to school he favored that as a precautionary measure or contributed money in that view, whether he repressed present action and the prosecution of the West charges. If you find Beecher did not act those questions will give you no trouble but if you find he took such part in these transactions, or any of them you will inquire whether he did so in apprehension that his sexual intercourse with Mrs Tilton might be exposed or from some other and independent cause. You will also inquire whether defendant refrained from public denial and refutation of the allegations contained in the paper known as the Woodhull scandal or from answering the particular inquiry made by Bradshaw in the letter to which he sent no reply or was held in bondage of fear to Mrs Morse from a sense of guilt as now charged. In any view of the case you may be disposed to ask why Beecher if innocent should have garnered up in his heart all that pain and fear so long while he might have made proclamation to the world and trampled out the scandal as with iron boots? The question on all proofs is whether the defendant understood he was charged with adultery and spoke wrote acted and suffered from and in consequence of that or whether laying that all out of view he understood the charges to be that he had made improper proposals or advances and had robbed plaintiff of the rich inheritance and love of his wife and whether coupled with these charges he believed he had wronged plaintiff by favoring a family separation and dismissal by Bowen and for these reasons spoke wrote acted and suffered as described. If the wrong was adultery the solution of what followed is very easy. If the wrong, actual or imputed were of another character than stated then a just apprehension of the relation between defendant's state of mind and his conduct involves several considerations. What was his personal estimate of his relation to the church to the world to literature and of the reputation he should leave behind him? What was his conception of the nature and gravity of the charge of improper solicitations of alienating a woman's love from her husband and of the effect of such accusation if publicly made? What was his notion of the extent to which Tilton had been injured as a journalist in his family and in their means of subsistence? The Judge called attention to the credit due witnesses and referred as follows to Moulton's connection with the case. Moulton seems to have intervened therein as an avowed friend of Tilton. He appears to have undertaken to mediate between the parties to reconcile them as far as possible to prevent the spread of character of their differences from obtaining publicity. He states that such was the purpose and character of his intervention and defendant in his letters and otherwise has borne large and generous testimony to that effect. Yet Moulton on the very occasion as he himself testifies and as other witnesses state declared that defendant was not guilty of the intercourse which he now says had been admitted. It is for you to consider how far the insincerity and inconsistency of its statements go to discredit him. If you shall be of opinion that he incorrectly stated the truth in his examination and that his previous declarations were inspired by a spirit of loyalty to defendant's reputation and to that of Mrs Tilton you are at liberty to make such allowance for that as shall be proper. As to Tilton you will consider whether his testimony to the confession of defendant's guilt can be reconciled with his previous declarations that his wife was innocent. The peculiar theory which he has explained has been sufficiently illustrated by counsel and may be accepted as far as you think proper. As to the witness Kate Carey it is proper to state that persons called to prove alleged bad character for truth and veracity should have general knowledge to be fairly derived from opinions expressed by people who know witness. Such impeachment is weak in proportion as the circle in which the unfavorable opinion prevails and narrow as that opinion and the [illegible] special difficulties. As to another witness Benj F Tracy two suggestions have been made. First that having acted as counsel for defendant he should not have been called as a witness in the case second that owing to arrangements with or promise to plaintiff, he should not have acted as such counsel. The Judge commented at length on Tracy's case and said I have only to add that my own view of the proprieties of the course pursued by Tracy agrees with that of his associate counsel in the case. I think with them there has been no violation of duty on his part personal or professional. The question of damages was next considered. The Judge called attention to the large amount of evidence including plaintiff's alleged conduct at home and abroad [illegible] this mere question of damage. Such [illegible] and the Judge may reduce the amount of recovery but is no defense to the action. Mr Beecher's advance of money which through Moulton went to the benefit of Tilton and family appear to have been mere acts of generosity, nor does it appear to have been the fruit of any improper motive. Although it is of no special moment I think it proper to say the contradicted evidence shows that Tilton did not know of his being benefited by Beecher. We have before us no evidence which could support the charges of conspiracy and blackmail and if we had the defendant's position would remain if innocent to so declare independent of such artifices. The nearest approach to blackmail would seem to have arisen between Tilton and Moulton if the former did threaten to publish the card injurious to the latter unless the money were paid.

Gentlemen the case is now submitted to you. It is of a nature to call for the exercise of your highest intelligence and most scrupulous care. You will retire to your deliberations with an impartial and earnest purpose to be just to the witnesses just to the parties and to render a verdict which you may think of hereafter with satisfaction, as a duty honestly performed in the presence of God and men.

After the judge had got through reading his charge he took up the requests to charge and instructed the jury that the defendant was not obliged to prove himself innocent that mere proof of opportunity to commit the act was not proof of guilt of the party concerned that the destruction of a paper which was evidence in the case raised the presumption that its production would be unfavorable to the party who destroyed it that none of the defendant's letters declared guilt but only contrition and reproach for the trouble he had caused. The fact that the plaintiff cohabited with his wife after learning of her guilt was in favor of the innocence of defendant the Judge thought was not very applicable to this case and would not therefore so charge. The jury were to take into consideration the fact of plaintiff's six months silence after the alleged confession at his wife's request

When the judge completed his comments on the requests to charge he asked if counsel were content and Beach replied We are. One of the jurors asked if there were any papers relating to the case which could be given to them while in the jury room and Beach said he had no objections. Evarts stated there were some papers which were not in evidence and Judge Neilson replied that the jury could have any papers which they desired relating to the case

Judge Neilson asked a court officer what arrangement had been made for the jurors dinners and he was told all necessary preparations had been made. The court officers were then sworn in to take charge of the jury and allow no communication with them except by permit of the court and at one o clock the jury retired to their deliberations on the case. After they retired the spectators remained in the court room discussing the merits and demerits of the charge and it was agreed on all hands that it was very favorable to defendant

No Verdict Yet.

NEW YORK June 24—At 10 o clock nothing has been heard from the jury. Judge Neilson adjourned court till 10 o clock to-morrow morning

JEFF DAVIS' COMPLIMENTS TO GENERAL SHERMAN—The malice that seeks to revive the nefariously concocted and long since exploded slander which connected my name with the assassination of President Lincoln is quite in character with the man who so conducted the invasion of the South as to render Sherman's bummers the synonym of pillage, arson, cruelty to the helpless murder of non combatants, and who closed his career of arson with a false accusation against General Hampton in regard to the burning of Columbia South Carolina. But the question arises Why did General Sherman at the date of his reported conversation with General J. E. Johnson suppose me capable of complicity in the assassination of President Lincoln? General Sherman never was personally acquainted with me and from those who know me either in the United States army or in civil life he surely learned nothing to justify such suspicion. In the conduct of the war between the States despite of many baseless accusations we can proudly point to a record which shows a strict adherence to the usages of war between civilized nations. On what then did the suspicion of General Sherman rest? Was it not that proceeding on the rule of judging other's by one's self he ascribed to me the murderous and malicious traits of his own nature? For public considerations it is to be hoped that the ineradicable malignancy of Sherman may be an exception to the prevailing sentiment of the United States army"

THE LEXINGTON OF THE SEA

CENTENNIAL OF THE FIRST NAVAL FIGHT OF THE REVOLUTION

The centennial of the first ocean contest in the revolution was celebrated at Machias, Maine June 12th. National salutes were fired, bells were rung and never before was Machias so profusely and gayly decorated with bunting. A procession formed at 9 A. M and was a mile in length. Fifteen veterans of the war of 1812—one of them ninety years of age—were in the line and participated in the dinner which was served. An oration was delivered in the open air, no building in the city being adequate to accommodate the assemblage. A grand banquet, an open air band concert salutes ringing of bells and fire-works in the evening, concluded the celebration. A great number of relics of the battle and of revolutionary interest were on exhibition

The story of the naval contest is pleasantly told by the Lewiston Journal as follows

The news of the fighting at Lexington and Concord did not reach far-away Machias until the last days of April. It naturally created the most intense excitement, for the settlers were substantially a unit in their sympathy with the cause of the colonies. This sympathy they determined to evince by speedily erecting a liberty pole in front of the town house, as an expression of their abhorrence of the acts of the British Government. To give additional force and dignity to the protest, a public meeting was held, at which it was voted to comply with the proclamation of the Provincial Congress of Massachusetts, and prepare for a conflict with Great Britain. Before sun down the pole was standing in its appointed place

Soon there came into the river a British schooner of war called the Margaretta, mounting four 4-pounders and sixteen swivels. She was commanded by a spirited young Irishman named Moore who, notwithstanding he came in the character of an enemy, was recognized by the Americans as a gallant and estimable gentleman. Upon landing, Capt Moore's attention was attracted to the trim new liberty pole in front of the town house

"Who erected that liberty pole?" he demanded of a group standing near by it

"That pole, Sir," answered John O'Brien, "was erected by a vote of the town"

"Well Sir" rejoined the officer, "it is my duty to declare that it must come down, or I will open fire upon Machias"

The people thereupon held a town-meeting again, and unanimously voted that the pole should not come down on any consideration whatever. This was on Saturday, and Capt Moore agreed to postpone until Monday the destruction of the village. Meanwhile the colonists laid a plot to seize the officers of the schooner while in church on Sunday, and then capture the schooner. They did not propose to see Machias bombarded and make no struggle in their own behalf

Sunday morning Capt. Moore came ashore and went to church like a respectable sailor and gentleman that he was. In the course of the sermon, in which it is safe to infer that he was not particularly interested, he was gazing through the window and saw a company of armed men crossing the river on logs. These were people from the neighboring towns coming to the aid of Machias. Taking advantage of a more than usually stormy sentence in the discourse Capt Moore jumped through the window and escaped to his vessel. As soon as he reached the Margaretta she was hauled down river and opened fire on the village.

The few shots that were fired were harmless, however, and after trying in vain the policy of intimidation, the Margaretta dropped down the river fully a league below the town. Here she was followed, summoned to surrender, and fired on from a high bank which her own shot could not reach. The Margeretta again weighed, and running into the bay at the confluence of the two rivers, anchored.

Meanwhile volunteers from the surrounding towns had been pouring into Machias to swell the ranks of the little force of Americans. Early Monday morning, the 12th of June, 1775, they were divided into two companies one under Col Foster, and the other under Jeremiah O'Brien, one of six brothers who played a prominent part in the subsequent proceedings. During the day Foster's party took a small coaster and sailed in search of the Margaretta. O Brien and thirty-five others took possession of the Liberty, a small lumber sloop, and sailed on the same errand. The coaster got becalmed, but the Liberty sailed into the bay

When the Margaretta observed the approach of the sloop, she weighed anchor and crowded the sail to avoid a conflict that was in every way undesirable. The Liberty, with her thirty five men, armed with fowling pieces, pitchforks and axes, put after her. The Liberty ran up to the Margaretta and the latter stood out at sea. The breeze freshened and the sloop proved the better sailor. So anxious was the Margaretta to avoid a collision that Capt. Moore now cut away his boats, but finding this ineffectual, and that his assailants were fast closing upon him he opened fire from his four 4 pounders and his sixteen swivels. A man was killed on board the Liberty, which returned fire in a spirited manner from its single wall pieces. This discharge killed the man at the Margaretta's helm, and the schooner consequently backed to, bringing the vessels foul of each other

A short conflict between the crews now took place, the weapons being swivel guns, muskets and hand grenades. Several were killed on each side. The vessels swung apart, leaving John O Brien on board the Margaretta, being the only one of the Americans who had reached the enemy's deck. Seven of the British immediately fired at him, but not a bullet touched him. They then charged upon him with their bayonets, but he leaped overboard and swam to the Liberty. Again the two vessels fouled. The patriots, some with clubbed muskets, and some with pitchforks, poured into the Margaretta in the face of a furious fire. The conflict was brief. Capt. Moore fell in the early part of the action, and the officer in command soon surrendered. The British lost ten killed and about the same number wounded. The American loss was four killed and eight or nine wounded

The Liberty was then equipped with the armament of the Margaretta, and with Capt O Brien, in command, became the first of American cruisers. O Brien was not allowed to rest on his laurels. Two English schooners the Diligence, and the Tapnaquish, were fitted out at Halifax and sent to Machias to wipe out the disgrace and recapture the Margaretta. O Brien met them in the bay, separated them, and boarded each, the British surrendering without a blow

This second disaster roused the rage of the British at Halifax to the highest pitch. A formidable expedition consisting of a frigate, a two gun ship, a sixteen gun brig and several schooners, all carrying about a thousand men was fitted out to punish the daring fishermen of Machias. Under the direction of the O Briens a breastwork was thrown up a short distance below the town. The Americans had no cannon, and were obliged to rely upon their muskets. When the British vessels arrived, some 500 men were disembarked and marched up to drive the Americans from their cover, but were received with such warmth that they fell back to the shore in disorder. A second attack was no more successful and the colonists leaving their entrenchments drove the British to their boats and so disheartened the expedition that it weighed anchor and started for home, leaving the brave people of Machias for the third time victors

Last Tuesday evening at Gervais a fire broke out in the dwelling of Mr Mitchell an old resident of that part of the country and a small trader, whose house was near the church. The family saved little as the premises were consumed in twenty minutes time. Mitchell's family is so destitute by the fire that the neighbors were making a contribution for their assistance.

THE FLORA AND NATIVE GRASSES OF OREGON

THE DALLES June 19, 1875

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

As I intend spending a few days in obtaining specimens of our native grasses and the flora of Eastern Oregon as a part of our State exhibit at the coming Centennial in '76," permit me to solicit the assistance and co operation of ladies and gentlemen who can, by combining pleasure, profitable employment and useful study, materially assist in making a success of so laudable an undertaking. This department placed in charge of Dr E R. Geary, of Albany can by a little assistance from individuals in various localities who love to gather rare plants and wild flowers, be made not only useful and instructive to contributors but also in the flora of the Centennial Exhibition a lasting credit to our State. The process of preserving flowers, leaves and cuttings, by pressing them between the leaves of books, thick paper or cardboard, is familiar to most of us, and with trifling expense and a little outlay of time the native leaves, flowers, herbs and plants of our State can be obtained, scientifically arranged and classified, and made the study of scholars and botanists from all parts of the world

Our ferns, lichens and mosses are worthy the careful attention of the amateur naturalist and deserve a prominent place in the collection

All cases or packages of specimens designed for the Exhibition forwarded to our address at Portland or to C E. DuBois, of the same place, will receive the best of care, and, after being passed upon by the State Centennial advisory board, will be forwarded with other articles to Philadelphia and placed on exhibition in the Oregon department in the name of the donor

Many of the older States are already offering liberal premiums for articles of merit to be passed upon and forwarded to Philadelphia by their State Centennial boards, and although our display will depend upon individual effort still we hope it will be made none the less creditable to the State.

Space has been secured in the pavilions and every arrangement possible to be made has been completed, and it shall not be our fault if Oregon is not as well represented in her natural resources in this great exposition as any of her sister States   A J DUFUR,
Commissioner for Oregon

FRIDAY MORNING, JUNE 25, 1875.

INDEPENDENTS TO THE FRONT!

The San Francisco Chronicle has come out squarely for the Independent State ticket of California. The Bulletin and Call will, of course, give it their hearty support. The Republicans have now no newspaper in San Francisco—except the Alta—and none with more than a merely local reputation in the State, with the exception of the Record-Union, and that paper is by no means earnest in its advocacy of the party ticket. The Marysville Appeal, the most influential paper, perhaps, outside the cities of San Francisco and Sacramento, is out for the Independent ticket. In fact the nominations of the Independent State Convention appear to be received with the greatest enthusiasm all over the State. The people are fully aroused, and are determined to carry forward the reforms so auspiciously begun. The prospects are very favorable indeed for the Independents. It is generally conceded the Republicans have no possible chance for success, and the Independents feel confident of being able to outvote the Democracy.

This is encouraging for Oregon. From time to time it is announced by the ring organs that the Independent move has collapsed, and from time to time evidence is seen that it is constantly growing stronger and taking deeper root in the sentiments of the people. How many times the Independent spirit has been laid by the party soothsayers we shall not attempt to recall, but certainly so many that the movement must have started out with more lives than Plutarch to be alive yet. The victory in California will be the signal for a similar one in Oregon at the special election on the 25th of October. Let Independents in Oregon pick their flints and be ready for the contest that is to end in the triumph of their righteous cause.

THE LAWYERS IN THE GREAT SCANDAL CASE.

At last it seems the end of the great scandal trial, as the court has not granted the application to open it for the introduction of the newly discovered evidence, upon the application made by Beach at the close of his speech. The world will not be sorry to see the floodgates of uncleanness closed, and all who feel a deep interest in the morals of the community will, we are sure, be sorry to see them opened again.

The speeches of counsel are in, and the world will find time from the main case, to consider the merits of the lawyers. The case has been such as to try the lawyers as well as the parties. It has been seen from the first that the great counsel engaged were to measure swords for professional victory as well as for the success of the cause of their clients. Tracy, though sometimes spoken of as the leader of the Brooklyn bar, started out with a series of unfortunate blunders and never once was able to rise above them. He passed through his part in the drama like a scientific essayist, and left the stage with less reputation than he carried to it. Fullerton towered above all his associates and all his antagonists in the only part he has taken, the introduction of evidence, and the examination of witnesses. Porter displayed some talent in the examination of witnesses, but made a failure when he addressed the jury. His speech was not an argument for his client, but a philippic against Tilton, Moulton and Bowen. He had no theory of defense, and apparently stood for nothing but to command the bitterest forms of speech against those three persons. His speech will be regretted by him and by his friends hereafter. Evarts fell far short of public expectation in his conduct of the trial till he came to address the jury. Then he sustained his great reputation. His address was polished, elegant, plausible and forcible, which can be said of few of the efforts of the greatest advocates. He exhibited consummate skill in arraying all the strong facts on his side in their most convincing form, and explaining away the damaging facts produced against his client.

Beach has exhibited less of the graces of rhetoric but much more of the strength of argument. His well pruned, compact Saxon goes to the mark as straight as a bullet and almost as hard. Nothing escapes his severe analysis, and there is nothing he does not say when he thinks it ought to be said. The addresses of Beach and Evarts, and the cross-examinations of Fullerton in this great case, will be interesting and useful studies for the practising lawyer, for a generation.

THE IRON TRADE.

American iron on sale in the English market is a very encouraging announcement of the cable telegrams which we publish this morning. It is but recently that England supplied our country with most of the iron we used. The tables are turned. The development of the iron interests of the United States, within a few years, has been most remarkable. Pennsylvania is the great iron-producing State, but her production has doubled and trebled within the twenty years last past, while other States have gone into the business and are already competing with her in the trade of large sections of the Union. In all the products of iron the United States will soon occupy the foremost position of the world.

This is a branch of manufacturing in which Oregon must at no very distant day have peculiar and important advantages. She possesses ore of the best quality and in quantities absolutely inexhaustible. The magnetic ore of Multnomah, Columbia, Washington, Clackamas, and Yamhill counties are unlimited in amount, of very fine quality, easy of access and surrounded by forests of timber adapted to the purposes of fuel. With labor at the same rates Oregon can produce the finest of charcoal pig as cheaply as common brands are produced elsewhere. And then, unless accessible mines shall be discovered in California, Oregon will have a market in which the breadth of a continent will preclude competition. The Pacific States must be supplied from this northern coast. There is a bright future before the iron interests of this State. There is everything to encourage enterprises in this line. The increase of population now going on and which may be expected to continue, will produce a corresponding increase of home consumption. The demand thus created should not be allowed to be supplied from abroad. Oregon ought to control the iron market of the entire Pacific Coast.

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS.

Liberty of the press does not mean quite as much in Europe as it does in this country. Englishmen like to talk of the freedom of the press in their country, and Frenchmen think the press enjoys a delightful liberty under the Republic. But the freedom of the press in either of those countries is hardly up to the ideas of an American who has any ideas on the subject. For example, the Parliament of England provides reporters' desks in its chambers, for the use of the newspapers, and yet exercises the right to summon before its bar the printer of a newspaper for the offense of allowing his reporters to publish the proceedings. The publishers of newspapers are thus liable at any time to suffer from the caprices of any member for doing just what Parliament, by implication and custom, provides he may do. And the French Assembly passes a bill providing that "attacks on the form of Government and the President of the Republic" shall be imprisonment from one month to three years and fine from 500 to 5,000 francs, at the discretion of the court. This is not a very promising start for free government. If the right to a voice in the formation of a government is inherent and inalienable—and it is so, if any political right is—the right to discuss the merits of the existing form of government is essential to the preservation of the liberty of the citizen. Licentious journalism is one of the abuses of the free press of America; but it is less to be dreaded than any restraint that suppresses discussion of the topics which are most nearly related to the welfare of society.

In the Democratic Convention at Cleveland, Ohio, on the 13th instant, there was not that evidence of unity of feeling in the ranks of the faithful which is generally supposed to presage harmonious action and ensure victory at the polls. When the question of platform was up, things went on swimmingly through a series of very good and wholesome resolutions, till the financial problem was reached. Then there was trouble. The fight between hard money and greenbacks was determined and bitter. The workingmen delegates, representing a large voting constituency, made a firm stand for more currency, but were overruled by the hard money men, after a very acrimonious debate. They submitted, angrily, declaring that unless the party favors an increase of currency, it need never expect to win another victory.

The charge of Judge Neilson to the Tilton-Beecher jury appears to have been satisfactory to all parties. It is seldom that a judge is so fortunate in the charge he gives in an important case, as to satisfy both sides. That result has been reached in this case by the Judge's contenting himself with stating a few plain propositions of law applicable to the case, and leaving the jury to do the rest. And yet it can hardly be said Judge Neilson has not given the jury all the instructions necessary to enable them correctly to apply the test of the law to the testimony before them; and when a judge has done that, he has done all that the spirit of the common law jury system contemplates he shall do.

A dispatch from Kingston, Jamaica, says the island is suffering very severely from the effects of the hurricane of November last. Ground provisions are extremely scarce, and for what is procurable, famine prices are demanded. So great is the scarcity of food that the peasantry are selling their next season's coffee crop in anticipation for rice, flour, and other necessaries of life.

Carl Schurz is to return to America soon. His visit to his native land as a citizen of the United States, and one of her most distinguished and honored citizens, too, presented a striking contrast to his leaving home, less than twenty years ago, an exile and a fugitive.

It is reported that evidence is turning up in unexpected quarters against the whisky ring. The rumor that the government has compromised with some of the swindlers is emphatically denied, and it is asserted that they will be prosecuted with the utmost rigor.

A comparison of the thermal record of this year with that of last, in the East, shows the present season is from two to six degrees colder than last.

The Headquarters of both political parties have again by common consent been established at ISAAC BLUM'S Store, which he has elegantly refitted to meet the requirements of the occasion. This place has become the recognized resort of connoisseurs, who pride themselves on the fact that they smoke Blum's Cigars and pay for them.

This card is published for the information of strangers. It is therefore well for visitors from various parts of the State and abroad, as well as San Francisco drummers and such like, to bear this in mind and act accordingly.

Parties desiring Imported Havanas or Key West Cigars by the box will please call before the present invoice is disposed of.

A Case of Destitution.—Captain Mountain called our attention to a case of suffering and destitution, yesterday, that should receive attention from the hands of the charitable. It is that of a young man with a wife and one child, who landed in this city the 25th of May last, during which time he has been confined to his bed, and a portion of the time his wife has been so unwell as to scarcely be able to wait upon him. One of the leading physicians of the city is attending to his case gratuitously, but says that he cannot last long. His complaint is Bright's disease of the kidneys. But fate has ordered otherwise, and it seems that he must lie down to his last rest in the land of strangers. We understand that the Ladies' Relief Society have been looking after them. In this dark hour of affliction they need the tender sympathy of warm and loving hearts, and the more substantial sympathy which the charitable can give. For the credit of our city we hope that both will be freely tendered, and that they may receive the aid and sympathy they so much need. They are living upon the corner of B and Eighth streets.

From Hongkong.—In a letter written at Hongkong, May 14th, by Walter Moffett, owner of cargo and bark Edward James, he says: "Yesterday I sold my lumber, after selling it here over twenty days. My beef and pork are not yet sold. As soon as a buyer sees 'Oregon' on the barrel he says; 'No Thank you.' Let every one who may see it growing take occasion to set their heel upon it, for by doing so they will deserve the thanks of the agricultural portion of the community.

THE REVIVAL MEETINGS.

The revival meetings now being held in this city under the auspices of the Rev. E. P. Hammond still continue to progress with unabated vigor. Yesterday morning's meeting was one of unusual interest. The experience of Zeb. Wilson, as related by himself, touched a chord in many hearts, and showed to them that there was something more than the power of man that produced such wonderful change in the spirit and disposition of men. Last evening the Rink was filled by a large and attentive audience. The following communication from one of the ministers of this city, shows that the same spirit is being carried to our neighboring cities and villages:

On Board Oneonta, June 24, 1875.

When the Oneonta started on her morning trip forty-four representatives of Baptist Churches were found on board en route for the Dalles to attend the annual meeting of the Willamette Baptist Association. It was proposed that we should improve our time, and therefore, at six o'clock a praise meeting was held led by the pastor of Portland Baptist Church, in which nearly every delegate participated. Song books were freely used and an hour was agreeably passed, warming all hearts and giving a good zest for breakfast.

From Vancouver a telegram was sent to the morning prayer meeting at Portland that forty delegates would pray for them at 9 o'clock, in accordance with which Dr. R. C. Hill, of Albany, read a psalm and led in prayer, and was followed by six or seven others.

The meeting held till the first high bluff was alongside, when all, by common consent, went out to praise God as seen in His works.

Thursday evening will be spent in dedicating the new church at The Dalles.

JONATHAN.

Mr. Hammond will speak on the "Divinity of Christ" to-night.

AMUSEMENTS.

New Market Theater was well filled last evening to witness the play of "Alphonse" and the sketches of Lingard. The acting of the leading characters was fully appreciated by the auditors, who responded frequently by applauding the most effective scenes. Lingard's sketches received, as they deserved, the warmest approbation. We should be pleased to see him in something that he has not already done, and look forward to further changes in his parlor entertainment. "Charity" is billed for this evening, and the San Francisco press speak very highly of it. It is said to be one of the best in the repertoire of the Lingards. On this occasion the attendance will no doubt be increased. A matinee is announced for Saturday afternoon. The ladies will be pleased to hear this. So far the season has proven even more successful than anticipated. Such artistes as the Lingards have never appeared in Portland, and Mrs. Phelps has made a fortunate engagement in securing them. "Alixe" and other specialties are underlined for next week. Special arrangements have been made for residents along the line of the O. & C. R. R., as far south as Albany, to attend the performance on Monday evening and return after the close of the performance.

The railroad war and other events that have occupied the attention of the public for day's past were nothing as compared with the excitement created by BECK & WALDMAN, the well-known Clothiers, who are selling their Summer Stock of Clothing, Men and Boys' wear, at fearfully low prices. Before making a purchase step into their place and see what they can do for you. The stock of furnishing goods at this house is complete.

Big Bonanza's are all very well in their way, but that popular dealer in Clothing, JOS. KOHN, opposite the National Bank, is content to serve his many patrons and the public in general with the very latest goods in his line, and to give the purchaser the benefit of low prices during the dull times. His stock of Clothing, Furnishing Goods, etc., was never more complete. You will never regret your purchases at Kohn's. Call to-day.

The Commissariat of the Body.

The stomach is the commissariat of the physical system. It furnishes the natural sustenance of every organ. If disordered, the whole body languishes; but, however affected, its tone and vigor may always be restored by a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The regularity in its operations which this grand tonic alterative establishes is the most direct means of obviating physical debility, impurities of the blood and affections of the discharging organs. We know that if digestion or the habit of the body is obstructed, the entire physique is weakened in consequence of insufficient conversion of the food into blood; and it is equally certain that the refuse of the system not being wholly thrown off is sure to contaminate the vital fluid and surcharge the bowels and kidneys with vitiated matter which weakens and inflames them. The Bitters, by strengthening the organs of discharge, enables them to act vigorously, and thus liberates the pent-up waste which would otherwise work incalculable injury.

A Distressing Cough causes the friends of the sufferer almost as much pain as the sufferer himself, and should receive immediate attention. Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry speedily cures coughs, colds, influenza, sore throat, etc. It will always relieve consumption, and in many well-attested cases it has effected a perfect cure.

THE GROWTH OF PORTLAND.

The following extract from the oration of W. T. Wright, delivered before the annual reunion of graduates of the Portland Academy and Female Seminary, June 18, 1875, will prove of interest to many of our readers:

But we cannot pass without a glance at our own State, and a mention of the progress she has made, and probably in no place is that progress more patent than in the metropolis. Portland has spread beyond the limits of a town and assumed the dignity and proportions of a city; and who can but wonder at her growth and enterprise as he gazes at her elegant mansions, her stately schools, her princely stores, her massive piles of brick, iron and stone, models of architectural design and finish, her tapering spires and her flashing domes.

A few days since I met an old Portlander on the street who has resided in Eastern Oregon ten years and had not visited the city in that time. "Well, B.," I inquired, "what do you think of it?" He replied that he came prepared for a surprise, but must acknowledge that he was not only surprised, but never so astonished in all his life. Such a growth on such a splendid scale he had never before witnessed, and like the queen of old, could truly say, "The half had not been told."

She has built up for Oregon a great and growing commerce. Oregon wheat and flour, Oregon salmon and other produce is bought and sold in the produce exchange of England, France, Germany, China, Japan and the islands of the seas. Our exporters have ceased shipping to San Francisco where their produce, by a "slight turn of the wrist" or "twist of the tongue," underwent a miraculous change and thereafter became the first-class productions of California. They now ship directly to foreign ports, and then spread Oregon's name and fame and bring us in return, not only the riches of other lands, but citizens—citizens of the most substantial kind, to fell our forests, till our soil, push forward our great enterprises and develop our mighty resources. Immigration is now pouring in from all directions, men of brain, of muscle, and of capital, seeking homes and fortunes in this far off land of the setting sun, attracted hither by the fame of our mild and healthful climate, our fertile soil, our exhaustless mines, our mighty forests of valuable woods, our industries and our schools. The metropolis is but an index of the growth and prosperity of the whole State. During the past ten years our missionaries have visited the Eastern States, and I am credibly informed that many of the more enlightened of those States now know that Oregon is a State and not a trout stream.

IMPORTANT.—Indorsed by the Medical profession. Dr. Wm. HALL'S BALSAM FOR THE LUNGS cures Coughs, Colds, Consumption, and all diseases of the Throat and Chest. Dr. TOWNSLEY'S TOOTHACHE ANODYNE cures in one MINUTE.

MRS GAVETT'S BOX

[From the Detroit Free Press]

There is not a kinder hearted, more benevolent woman in Detroit than Mrs Gavett Last year she was on the committee to canvass for aid for grasshopper sufferers and this year she intends to send them a large box of her own getting up She had Gavett bring up a box the other day, and when it had been placed in the shanty she put on a calico dress tied on a check apron and rumbled around the house to pick up enough articles to fill the box and have it sent off next day Her greatest anxiety was the fear that the box was too small for one half the things she wanted to send

Opening the closet door she took down an old coat one that her husband threw away two years ago

"I'll send that for one thing," she mused, as she held it up "I don't know though—that's a pretty good coat Put a patch on that elbow and Thomas can wear it half the summer."

She placed it on a chair and took down one of her old dresses

"I'll make some farmer's wife glad with this," she said as she shook out the folds and held it up "Let's see! Why there isn't a hole in either sleeve—skirt all right—waist almost as good as new I believe I can sell that dress second hand for enough to buy me a bracelet"

The dress was laid beside the coat and she hauled out Gavett's boots The heel of one was run over, and there was a hole in the toe of the other

"They'll do for some one to plow in" she soliloquized, as she took them over to the light. "Some farmer—ah! Why, those are good boots! I believe I could get them fixed up for fifty cents so that Thomas could wear them half the winter. I don't believe in throwing anything away, even if we are well off"

The boots were set aside and she took down a bundle of children's clothing

"Ah! I can send these and make little hearts glad!" she whispered as she untied the bundle "The children have outgrown them and they will be a prize to some Kansas—sakes alive! but these garments are almost as good as the day they were made up! I believe I can sell them to the washerwoman for at least $2, and as soon as I get $2 more I can buy a new braid"

She tied the bundle up and stuck her head into the closet and brought out another dress

"A hole in each elbow—skirt torn half off," she mused as she turned it over "I'll send this anyhow Some mother can take it and get enough cloth out of the skirt to make her little girl a bran new—here what was I thinking of? Why, this is exactly the stuff I want for the blue stripe in that new rag carpet If I'd known this dress was in the house I'd have cut it up last week"

She unlocked another closet, peered in, and hauled out Gavett's old overcoat,—one worn out and stained and kicked around for a year.

"That will do splendid!" she said, as she held it up. "It isn't very nice, but some farmer can wear it to chop in Ah! hold on! I want that lining to make a cushion for my rocking-chair, and Jennie will want these buttons for her string, and the rest of the coat'll make a beautiful rug to lay in front of the lounge I'd like to send it, but probably it wouldn't be appreciated, or probably some one else will send a better one"

She rummaged around for a full hour, and when she got through the chamber floors were piled high with old "duds." Those she meant to keep were placed on the right—those she meant to send away on the left On the left was a wall-basket made of hoop-skirt wire She hasn't sent the box yet, but she means to She knows that all should contribute to the relief of the suffering and distressed.

A GOOD INDIAN STORY.

The recent celebration at Maysville Ky of the centennial of the first corn-planting in Mason county, brought out the following story

On the 22d of June, 1780, a company of 600 Canadians and Indians, under Colonel Byrd, a British officer, came with six cannon, in boats or canoes, down the Big Miami river, up the Ohio to where Covington now stands, thence up the Licking river to Ruddle's or Hinkson's Station Their approach was most painfully heralded to the little company of settlers by the booming of a cannon—a sound which had never before waked the echoes in Kentucky A surrender was demanded, with promises of protection by the British from Indian ferocity and indignities, and of kind treatment as prisoners But no white man ever yet could restrain the terrible passions of Indian warriors with prisoners in their hands, and in this case several were murdered, and others threatened with death and barbarously treated before Col. Byrd could arrest their terrible fate by threats of instantly returning to Canada and abandoning the expedition Martin's Station, five miles distant and three miles below Paris, on Stoner Creek, was surrendered afterward; but the prisoners were saved from death by Colonel Byrd, although the Indians divided the spoils among themselves Among the captured at Ruddle's Station were several boys John Ruddle could not travel because of a stone-bruise on his foot, he was tomahawked and scalped, but his two younger brothers, Abram and Stephen, were spared because of their cheerfulness and bravery George and John Sail, two little boys, the latter only two years old were about to be tomahawked, as too young to be of any value as prisoners, when a warrior less bloodthirsty than the rest proposed a test of John's capability of endurance and nerve To ascertain if he would make a plucky Indian, and so be worth the raising, they determined to roll him down a high and steep stony bank, where the knocks and bruises would sorely try him He underwent the cruel ordeal without a whimper or wincing, or any show of fear or suffering and with a smile, began to clamber up the bank, seeming to say "Do that again" Such coolness and self possession in a little child struck them with intense admiration, and they adopted him and his brother George grew up to manhood and married among them, but John was ransomed in a few years returned to Harrison county, and lived a long and useful life

GOING TO GRASS WIDOWHOOD EARLY —The Bowling Green (Ky) Pantagraph says "Yesterday a girl thirteen years of age filed her petition for a divorce a vinculo matrimonii This is somewhat unparalleled in the history of divorces The pair owing to the tender years of the girl and the consequent objections of her parents, went to Tennessee, where there are no restrictions to procure the tying of the Gordian knot They were married in April 1874 the bride consequently being only twelve years old In one month the husband abandoned his child wife and went to Tennessee, and abandonment for one year's duration was the cause of divorce"

It was comforting to an Irish editor to know that half the lies told about him were not true

Gold in New York 117 [illegible]

Legal Tenders in Portland—buying 85½ selling 86¼

Coin Exchange on San Francisco ½ per cent premium

Currency Exchange on San Francisco ¼ per cent premium

Coin Exchange on New York 1 per cent premium

Currency Exchange on New York ¼ per cent premium

Telegraphic transfers on New York 1 per cent premium

Gold Bars 750 par

The gold premium in New York appears to be well sustained There is also a report by mail that silver has appreciated to 5⅜d per standard ounce in London The rise in silver being a little more than the advance of gold in New York is favorable to the circulation of the new coin Thus when gold is worth 117¼ in New York $1 010 in currency turned into gold is worth $860 turned into silver coin in London it is worth $86[illegible] The price of gold is to some extent caused by the large exports of that metal due to foreigners for the principal and interest of the bonds they are sending to Washington for redemption There seems to be a tendency on the part of European nations to an accumulation of specie and rates of interest are very low Money in London says the Alta gold money is 3½ per cent per annum in Paris bankers paper and trade bills are 2⅜ per cent per annum and paper of the haute banque 2½ per cent per annum in Frankfort 2½ per cent in Berlin 2¾ per cent With these rates for money there is an enormous accumulation of gold thus

	Gold on hand	Circulating notes	Rate per cent
Bank of France	9.09 360 000	$49 080 000	½
Bank of England	105 796 880	151 8 100	⅜

Total	3.60 .18 680	$818 485 100
United States	81 100 000	472 220 000	2¾ @

With this vast stock of gold in Europe and the cheap rates at which they offer to lend it they do not want any more United States stocks It appears what the treasury pays them for interest and in redemption of bonds they pay the freight on and add it to the huge piles which if not very profitable are at least safe

Freights and Charters.

There is but little new to report under this head affecting Oregon's interests. While a large number of vessels are on the way to this coast seeking cargoes and doubtless expecting to get them out of our next harvest, there appears to be nothing doing by exporters in the matter of making engagements to come and load at this port At San Francisco there are now 40 vessels disengaged and nearly all of them are awaiting developments in the freight market counting upon the harvest season Last week there were eleven vessels in the port of San Francisco under charter to load breadstuffs for Europe and charters were effected with three vessels for the same voyage at £2 10s per ton in each instance The Alta of the 19th says—Outside of these charters for wheat and flour nothing has been done The dyewood season has passed away and the arrangements made by refiners to import their raw sugars from the Sandwich Islands has stopped all charters to Manila and [illegible] No vessels are wanted for lumber either to China or the West Coast, or for guano at present The inauguration of the Occidental and Oriental Company's line will further depress freights by cutting off the demand to and from China The rain of the last three days has materially aided in depressing the freight market. By delaying the harvest at least four weeks and hence compelling vessels now in port to wait that additional length of time for a charter it gives the inward bound fleet a chance to arrive in such numbers that all hopes of $3 freights will be gone

Home Produce Market

WHEAT—All reports agree that the growing crops in our State promise a heavy yield at the approaching harvest, which will begin rather later than usual this year Accounts from California also indicate a better yield than was anticipated a few weeks ago Latest Liverpool advices denote a slight advance in prices, and quotations there on the 20th inst were 9s per cental for average California ex warehouse, and the usual addition for club wheat Our local market shows but little animation at this time and quotations are still furnished at $1 50@1 55 per cental though we note the fact that some lots have changed hands at an advance of 2@5c per cental on these figures.

FLOUR—Quotations are not changed since our last report. The ship City of Vienna has a large part of her cargo for Liverpool on board and will be off by the 1st proximo Shipments to San Francisco are continued in smaller quantities while those to Puget Sound ports are as large as usual Extras of standard brands are quotable at $5 per bbl

OATS—The receipts during the week have been light and prices have been steady at our quotations of 55@57c per bushel Exports are growing less

BARLEY—There is but little inquiry at present and only a small amount is changing hands Quotations are unchanged

MILL FEED—There is still a tendency to a reduced demand We quote bran at $15@16 50 ₩ ton shorts $22@25 chops middlings, etc., $27 50 @30 oil cake meal $30 with but little in market

HAY—A full supply is in the market quotable $10@11 ₩ ton for fair to best timothy loose, and $11 @12 baled

POTATOES—There has been no important change in the market the past week The old crop is about exhausted and new are plentiful at 75c@$1 00 ₩ bushel

ONIONS—There are but few lots in the market quotable 2c ₩ lb nominally

APPLES DRIED—There is a fair demand for fair lots either in sacks or kegs the latter preferred at 7c ₩ lb Exports are increasing

BACON—Sides are held at our former quotations of 11@12c ₩ lb and are in full supply; shoulders are unchanged from 8@8½c while the market is overstocked with hams and quotations for common lots are 10@12c ₩ lb though they must be a little extra to command the latter figure

LARD—Good Oregon made is worth 16c ₩ lb in kegs or tins but no sign of an advance

BUTTER—It is difficult to quote good table butter always sells readily in this market while poor stuff is a drug the year round Common roll is worth now 20c ₩ lb

CHEESE—Quotable State dairies at 15@16c ₩ lb

EGGS—Receipts during the week have been light and prices have stood at 18c ₩ dozen We quote at that figure to day though lots which would bear a warranty of freshness could more readily be placed at 20c than common at 18c

CHICKENS—The market is fairly supplied at $[illegible] ₩ dozen for spring and $5 for full grown

BEEF CATTLE—Live cattle in fair condition are quotable at 2½@3c ₩ lb on foot or dressed at 5@6c

HIDES AND FURS—Prices for hides are still down on account of the many damaged lots reaching the market Undamaged are quoted at 7c ₩ lb for dry beef hides 6c for green culls 8@10c elk 18 @20c ₩ lb deer 18@35c ₩ lb dried and 40@50c apiece green mink skins each $1 50 otter $1@5 beaver 75c@$1

WOOL—We have but little that is new concerning this commodity prices remaining about as last given Receipts increase as the season progresses and shipments promise to be very large Several large lots will go on the steamer for San Francisco to-morrow The quotation for average is 22@23c ₩ lb though many lots sell for less

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words among not only one but many nations must have extraordinary virtues.—Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation or maintained it so long as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long continued series of marvellous cures that have won for it a confidence in its virtues never equalled by any other medicine. It still makes the most effectual cures of Coughs Colds Consumption than can be made by medical skill Indeed the Cherry Pectoral has really robbed these dangerous diseases of their terrors to a great extent and given a feeling of immunity from their fatal effects that is well founded if the remedy be taken in season Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness suffering and even life is saved by this timely protection The prudent should not neglect it and the wise will not. Keep it by you for the protection it affords by its timely use in sudden attacks
